Nominations for the 2026 Elections Now Open!

Are you looking for leadership or career experience? Want to connect with other library professionals and give back to Washington's library community? WLA invites you to run for a leadership position in 2026!

Explore the wide range of opportunities WLA has to offer. If you have any questions about a position, feel free to email the WLA office and we will be happy to connect you with more information.

2026 Nomination Form

All nominees should complete the nomination form and email their headshots to info@wla.org by end-of-day Friday, Aug. 22. Statements in the form should be approximately 250 words and should describe how your skills and experience will aid you in the position. Questions in the form include:

- What skills would you bring to the position?

- What qualifications make you a viable candidate for the position?
- Where would you like to see WLA and the Division/Section in the future, and what would you do to move it toward that vision?
- How do you see yourself upholding EDI values as a leader?

Terms of office begin January 1, 2026, and are one year, unless otherwise noted.

Please visit our Elections webpage for more information!

New Alki Issue Out Now! Building Bridges: The Conference Issue

This issue of Alki commemorates the 2025 WLA Conference, with the theme, "Building Bridges & Connecting Communities." Articles provide a more in-depth look at research and ideas from the conference, reflections of conference attendees, updates from the WLA Lobbyist and ALA Councilor, and award acknowledgments. A sense of camaraderie and shared values permeates the entire issue—as it did the conference—reinforcing that library workers and library enthusiasts are doing the work of building bridges and connecting communities.

WLA Mentorship Program

Interested in participating in the 2025-2026 WLA Mentorship Program as a mentor or a mentee?

Are you a library worker who wants to grow your skills alongside another library professional? Do you have experience and insight to share with your peers? We invite you to join our 2025-2026 mentorship community as a mentor or mentee!

You can learn more about the mentorship program in last year's Alki article. Applications will open at the end of August and will be announced in WLA Wednesday. Until then, fill out this interest form to receive more information via email!

WLA is excited to announce the launch of the WLA Bookend Collective, a new opportunity for corporate and nonprofit partners to make a meaningful impact on the future of libraries across Washington State.

The Bookend Collective offers organizations a meaningful way to contribute to the strength and sustainability of libraries and the dedicated professionals who serve their communities. Through this initiative, WLA aims to foster long-term resilience, connection, and support for Washington's library ecosystem.

We thank you for sharing this with your network and communities to support the future of Washington's libraries.

WA Teacher Librarians & School Counselors - Survey

As we continue to advocate for strong student support systems in our schools, we're seeing more and more parallels between the experiences of WA teacher librarians and WA school counselors, especially in the face of ongoing budget cuts. We believe there's a powerful opportunity for teacher librarians and school counselors to work more intentionally together, and we're reaching out to explore that.

WLA, together with the WA School Counselor Association, asks that you please take a moment to fill out our survey to help us better understand where our paths align, and how we can advocate for more integrated, effective support systems moving forward. Thank you for your time and sharing your story!

News & Notes

Library Trends Call for Papers

Library Trends is pleased to announce a Call for Papers for an issue of Library Trends that will explore innovative Readers' Advisory concepts and approaches that reflect critically on the ways in which we serve leisure readers across a wide landscape.

The journal welcomes articles that address both longer theoretical discussions and present shorter, practical applications of service to leisure readers. Perspectives from publisher, independent bookstore owners and/or authors about how they promote books to readers will also be considered.

The complete Call for Papers, including a timeline for publication, is available on the Library Trends website. Prospective authors are invited to submit an abstract outlining their proposed article by Aug. 1.

Inquiries about the planned issue and ideas for articles should be directed to Guest Editors Robin Bradford (robin.bradford@gmail.com) and Becky Spratford (bspratford@hotmail.com).

Students for Intellectual Freedom Virtual Workshops powered by Penguin Random House

Hailie Bonz, an undergraduate student at the University of California, Irvine, is working with Penguin Random House over the summer to lead three virtual workshops. These workshops aim to train and empower student activists with advocacy tools and create a network for us to communicate with one another.

The workshops will provide high school and college students with a deeper understanding of legislative processes surrounding censorship bills and an overall public speaking training. The workshops will be free for participating students, and an author whose books have been banned will be featured as a speaker (author TBD).

If any students are interested and would like to attend, have them fill out the programming survey with their name and email address to ensure they receive the meeting invites.

Dates for Teams Invite:

Workshop 1: August 1st at 1pm ET

Workshop 2: August 8th at 1pm ET

Workshop 3: August 15th at 1pm ET

UW Online Course: Media Literacy Institute 2025

August 4-8 | 9:00-11:00am PDT

In the AI age, media literacy education has never been more important. This course addresses the pressing need for students to develop media literacy skills, including critical thinking and deeper insights about the media messages they consume and produce each day. Media literacy promotes inquiry into stereotypes, representation, biases, ethical challenges, and other concerns that must be addressed in a world where AI is becoming ubiquitous.

Participants will...

- Understand basic media literacy theory and how to apply CML's evidence-based frameworks and pedagogy to AI tools.

- Gain practice with close analysis and facilitating a media literacy class, including uncomfortable subjects, and become a confident presenter and co-learner.
- Learn how to integrate media literacy instruction into your school or district curriculum, creating engaging lessons that empower students.

Washington State Library's Community Book Project

Did you know that at the Washington State Library, they have a collection of books that have been shared with them from libraries (mostly from Community/One Book programs) to share back out to the Washington Library community?

They have books for all ages, and the only requirement is that books are requested by libraries (for library use), and that you request at least five books at a time. Books must be sent to a library address (please no personal addresses or PO boxes). Feel free to share out with your colleagues who serve all ages, as there are many adult books as well as some youth-focused titles!

An exciting addition in this update -- games! The State Library has received some game donations, and they are available first-come-first-serve to libraries via the Community Book Project.

For more information and to see what books are available, check out the website here: <https://www.communitybookshare.com/>. Click on "bookstore" at the top right to see all available titles. Happy (free) shopping!

EveryLibrary Survey: Financial Costs of Book Challenges to Public Libraries

EveryLibrary, together with Heather Libby, an Adult Services Librarian at the Knoxville Public Library in Iowa, is researching the financial costs of book challenges to public libraries and the taxpayers. Any time a book is challenged, it obviously results in a great many costs—emotional, cultural, intellectual, etc. For the purposes of this study, the focus is on the specific question of what defending libraries and protecting patrons' freedom to read is costing the taxpayers in dollars.

Researchers at UCLA recently published a comprehensive report: Cost of Conflicts Report. This survey would gather similar data from public libraries.

If you would like to preview the questions asked in this survey, you may view them here: Preview Survey Questions Here.

ALA Policy Perspectives: Investing in Prison Libraries Report

A new report released by the American Library Association explores the essential role of prison libraries in lowering recidivism by better preparing incarcerated people for their release and why further investments in prison libraries are essential to reducing the social and economic impacts of incarceration. Investing in Prison Libraries: A Cost-Effective Path to Safer Communities and Second Chances, part of the ALA Policy Perspectives series, is co-authored by Erin Boyington, Amelia Bryne and Emily Durkin.

Burnout in Public Libraries: A Three-Part Series

Library work is rewarding—but it can also be exhausting. This three-part series explores the realities of burnout in public libraries through first-person narratives, research-backed insights, and expert strategies for resilience

- Part 1: Burnout & Materials Challenges – Understand how moral panics and book challenges contribute to burnout.
- Part 2: Burnout & Workplace Wellness – Discover how workplace culture, vocational awe, and emotional labor impact well-being.
- Part 3: Burnout & a Trauma-Informed Approach – Learn how to manage patron-related stress and apply trauma-informed service models.

Includes interactive self-assessments:

- Life Enjoyment Inventory
- Copenhagen Burnout Inventory
- Best Possible Future Exercise

Gain valuable perspectives from library professionals, social workers, and researchers to help you navigate burnout and reclaim your passion for library service.

Supported by funding provided by the federal Institute of Museum and Library Services administered by the Library Services and Technology Act, through the Washington State Library, a division of the Office of the Secretary of State.

Authors Against Book Bans is Here for Washington

A new state law prohibits schools from banning books used in curriculums solely because they were written by or about members of marginalized groups. Even so, book challenges continue to be a reality and dealing with one can be stressful. Authors Against Book Bans (AABB) in Washington State is dedicated to protecting the intellectual freedom to read and the availability of diverse voices on library shelves.

Comprised of a coalition of writers, illustrators, anthology editors and contributors, AABB offers support to librarians, teachers, and others involved in book challenges. Some of the ways members can help include:

- Writing emails and letters, sending recorded videos, and/or making phone calls to curriculum committees, school boards, and other decision-makers
- Sharing personal experiences demonstrating the importance of diverse books
- Appearing before public meetings in support of diverse books
- Sending personal messages of support (e.g., email or postcards) to individuals embroiled in challenges

For support or more information find AABB at authorsagainstbookbans.com.

Have news to share? Please send information to the WLA office at newsletter@wla.org by Monday to be included in that week's digest. Please include any relevant graphics, as well as the blurb you would like posted in our newsletter.
